CHC33021
CERTIFICATE III IN INDIVIDUAL SUPPORT
(Disability)

Benefit from the growing demand for qualified health practitioners

As our population ages and the need for disability support grows, the role of support workers and health practitioners has never been more crucial. The CHC33021 Certificate III in Individual Support (Ageing) and CHC33021 Certificate III in Individual Support (Disability) equip students with the essential skills and knowledge to provide high-quality care to individuals in various settings, including aged care facilities, community services, and private homes. By completing this qualification, you will learn how to assist clients with daily activities, promote their independence, and enhance their overall well-being.

This popular course also includes a work-based training component so you get real-life experience in the health work environment. You'll be work-ready as soon as you graduate and able to take up employment as a respite care worker, residential care worker, or disability support worker.

Why Choose Stanley College?

- Gain sought after skills for a career in a rapidly growing sector
- Learn with highly-experienced and qualified health professionals
- Experience work-based learning in real health work environments
- Work-ready as soon as your course is complete
